

THE HERPETOLOGICAL BULLETIN

Number 72, Summer 2000

Editorial	1
A new addition to Egypt's herpetofauna: Coluber algirus (Jan, 1863) Sherif M. Baha El Din	2
Do juvenile Slow-Worms living under a refuge interact with one another? Gene Lowson and Roger Avery	4
Herpetofaunal observations in disparate habitats in South Australia, New South Wales, and Queensland, Australia Eli Greenbaum	6
The Durrell Wildlife Conservation Trust and the Mallorcan Midwife Toad, Alytes muletensis – into the 21st century Kevin R. Buley and Candelaria Gonzalez Villavicencio	17
Reproductive behaviour of the Sand Lizard, Lacerta agilis , in south-east Dorset, with a note on habitat management Tony Phelps	21
Herpetofaunal expedition to Parque Nacional Patuca: a newly established park in Honduras Kirsten E. Nicholson, James R. McCranie, and Gunther Köhler	26
Book review	32

BRITISH
HERPETOLOGICAL
SOCIETY

- Registered Charity No. 205666 -