

THE HERPETOLOGICAL BULLETIN

---

Number 79, Spring 2002

UK captive-breeding of European tortoises: background and potential problems Robert Bustard .....	2
UK captive-breeding of European tortoises: 1997-2000: supply and demand Robert Bustard .....	4
Preliminary observations on herpetofaunal diversity in the Almaty region, southern Kazakhstan (September 1998) Michael R.K. Lambert .....	7
Ants and termites are the diet of the microhylid frog Elachistocleis ovalis (Schneider, 1799) at an Araucaria forest in Rio Grande do Sul, Brazil Mirco Solé, Jochen Ketterl, Marcos Di-bernardo and Axel Kwet .....	14
Threats facing endemic herpetofauna in the cloud forest reserves of Ecuador Todd R. Lewis .....	18
A look at light Barry Pomfret .....	27
Egg-laying habits of the Middle American arboreal lizard Laemanctus longipes , with particular reference to nest site selection Peter J. Stafford and Elizabeth P. Mallory .....	30
Triturus alpestris in Britain Kenneth Blackwell .....	32

BRITISH
HERPETOLOGICAL
SOCIETY

- Registered Charity No. 205666 -